MARINES, SAILORS EXPLORE DISASTER AREA

WOODS TO BE SEARCHED AND LAKES DRAGGED

OFFICERS BELIEVE ADDITIONAL DEAD TO BE LOCATED NEAR LAKE DENMARK ARSENAL

SMOULDERING FIRES STIRRED UP THE 14-INCH SHELLS AGAIN YESTERDAY

By J. F. BEAMAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Dover, N. J., July 13.—Patrols of marines and sailors were sent into the area of the Lake Denmark naval arsenal again today. They resumed the search for victims of Saturday's explosion which wiped out the arsenal and thus far has run up a known death list of 19, with several still missing.

The men not only will go into the arsenal grounds but squads will search the woods nearby and probably will drag the lake, where it was reported one or more bodies had been seen.

Officers in charge believed the search might reveal additional dead and considered that particularly it might result in some of the civilian missing being accounted for.

The first detail of marines sent into the devastated area yesterday recovered 17 bodies of comrades and others. They deployed over a waste of smoldering embers from which shells burst unexpectedly.

Further explorations of the zone were delayed by reports of a fire burning in one of the magazines. This offered a new menace to the shell shocked surrounding country. There was a flare up of excitement yesterday evening as the smoldering fires on the reservation reached one of the magazines and new blasts rocked the area as 14-inch shells again hurtled through the air.

All men were ordered out of the danger zone. Of the 19 dead whose bodies have been recovered, six remained unidentified.

The official list of missing still contained nine names but identifications yet to be made of bodies recovered undoubtedly will reduce the number.

Of the injured several were discharged from hospitals during the last 24 hours and today less than 60 still were receiving hospital treatment. All were expected to live.

The list of bodies recovered included that of Orlando N. Alfson, Farmington, Minn.

Late last night, however, the navy issued the following statement:

"Captain J. E. Enoch, senior naval officer present, has just observed the fires still burning in the navy ammunition depot and apparently they are slowly dying out," the statement read. "It is confidently felt that major explosions are over."

While the navy went about its work of identification, citizens of surrounding towns turned to the rehabilitation of their dwellings, many of which were wrecked or damaged. Stores in Rockaway, Mount Hope, Wharton and other nearby places were opened. Mount Hope seemed to have suffered the most damage, but in all nearby towns windows were broken, many roofs were caved in by flying objects and the damage was considerable.

A special board will determine the amount of damage done to civilian owned property.

Navy officers told civilians they believed most of the danger was over and urged that all use caution but avoid nervousness.

Heeding that advice, the town council of Dover met last night and calmly busied itself with the purchase of pushcarts for the street cleaning department, an anti-climax for the men who had been watching thousands of pounds of ammunition blow up.

NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY TO CONVENE

Dover, N. J., July 13.—A naval court of inquiry was expected within the next 24 hours formally to determine responsibility for the series of ammunition explosions at the Lake Denmark depot.

The verdict it was almost certain will be an "act of God," a flash of lightning, touched off the great powder store house, resulting in 19 known deaths and more than $85,000,000 property loss.

High navy officers will inspect the entire reservation, going over the terrain where powder and shells have been exploding almost constantly since Saturday afternoon. They will interview those who survived

DRUSE REBELS PLAN ATTACK ON DAMASCUS

Arab sources reported that rebels had recaptured Jerusalem and that the French were withdrawing toward Hama from advanced outposts in the southern Druse country.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE TRANSIT SERVICE AT N. Y.

FIRST CRASH IN CARS RESULTED IN INJURIES TO 12 PEOPLE

EMPLOYERS CLAIM STRIKE IS BROKEN, STRIKERS SAY IT IS STILL EFFECTIVE

New York, July 13.—(UP)—Improved service was effected on the Interborough Rapid Transit subway lines today, as authorities investigated the first crash of the strike which involved injuries to passengers.

Twelve persons received minor injuries last night when a subway express operated by an emergency motorman, smashed into the buffer at the Van Courtland park terminal. Passengers in the crowded train were severely shaken. One woman, Miss Alice Harvey, suffered a fractured nose. The other passengers returned home after being treated.

Despite the claims of the I. R. T. that the strike was broken, President Frank Hedley extended the time limit of the ultimatum that the men must return to work to noon today. The company declared that 75 men had returned, while the strikers said only 10 had gone back.

The explosions and the sweeping fires which followed and in their report it was expected, some intimation would be contained of the navy's attitude toward rebuilding what was the navy's greatest munitions storage depot.

Meanwhile detachments of more than 400 marines impatiently awaited the order to go into the shell torn sector gain and seek additional bodies. The force was strengthened last night by the arrival of 200 additional men from Quantico.

NAVY OFFICIALS DEFEND ARSENAL SITE

Washington, July 13.—Navy officials today defended the location of the destroyed Lake Denmark, N. J., arsenal, as they prepared for a double investigation of the $90,000,000 blast of high explosives and 14-inch cannon shells.

An attempt to have congress appropriate money to rebuild the storage plant, the largest in the navy, will be made, but not until the disaster has been thoroughly investigated.

"The fact that only one civilian casualty occurred off the reservation shows that the location out there in that wild hilly country is almost ideal," Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Robinson said today.

Other navy officials pointed out that a location as near as possible to New York, principal seaport, about 50 miles in this case, is necessary for military reasons.

All navy officials concerned emphasized that the disaster was not preventable. A recent photograph of building No. 8, which the lightning first hit, was produced by the ordnance department, showing lightning rods on the tar gravel roof and ground wires running down to the ground.

This picture is expected to be an important part of the evidence produced before the naval court of inquiry, which Secretary Wilbur has announced he will call to investigate the cause of the blast and the damage to government property.

Wilbur will convene a separate board to determine the damage to private property and in this connection he has directed navy experts to confer with Attorney General Sargent regarding the navy's legal responsibility.

FRANCE AGREES TO PAY WAR DEBT TO GREAT BRITAIN

$3,125,000,000 WAR OBLIGATION TO BE FUNDED BY THE FRENCH

WINSTON CHURCHILL, CHANCELLOR OF EXCHEQUER, MAKES STATEMENT IN HOUSE

By CLIFFORD L. DAY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
London, July 13.—(UP)—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, today announced in the house of commons what the house had been hoping for for seven years, that France had agreed to pay the $3,125,000,000 war debt to Great Britain.

Churchill said that Joseph Caillaux, French minister of finance, had agreed that the debt should be paid over 62 years, this year's annuity amounting to $20,000,000. Thereafter the annuities would rise to $30,000,000, $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. The agreement, like that recently concluded in Washington is subject to ratification by the French parliament.

FRENCH AGITATION FOR MODIFICATION U. S. DEBT

Washington, July 13.—France's agitation for modification of the debt settlement with America appeared futile as the situation stood today, following announcement of Treasury Secretary Mellon that any modification proposals would have to be made to congress and not to the American debt funding commission.

The present settlement, pending in the senate after passage by the house, has been condemned by some democrats and insurgent republicans as too lenient and a virtual cancellation of part of the legal debt.

These groups indicated today they would not make what would be regarded as a double concession unless France presents much more evidence than she has that she cannot pay more.

The administration group is prepared to stand behind Secretary Mellon, who took a prominent part in the funding negotiations.

Should France fail to ratify the settlement, she would be in a worse position than if ratification were voted, according to Mellon.

America, it was pointed out, could commercialize at any time the five per cent cash demand obligation she now holds on the $4,025,000,000 debt, whereas the debt settlement provides payments over 62 years at reduced interest.

Mellon made it plain in a newspaper conference that the "settlement has now passed out of the hands of those who negotiated it."

Mellon said he had received no official request for modification but that he was aware of the agitation in France for changing the agreement.

The clearing operations began yesterday. Among the rebel dead is Omar El Asfar, chief of the Mount Ana tribe.

BEAT NEPHEW TO DEATH WHEN HE LOST 65 CENTS

ANTHONY LUCKING, FARMER, IS TAKEN TO STILLWATER PENITENTIARY

WILL BEGIN SERVING 1 TO 15 YEAR TERM IN INSTITUTION

Hastings, Minn., July 13.—(UP)—For beating his nephew to death because of the disappearance of 65 cents, Anthony Lucking of Marshan, a farmer, was taken to Stillwater penitentiary today to begin serving a 1 to 15 year term.

Lucking said he believed his nephew, Arthur Manner, 8, had stolen 65 cents and punished him with an automobile tire and a heavy tree branch, knotted at one end. The boy was an orphan and lived with his uncle.

Six jurors had been selected to try Lucking on a charge of second degree murder Monday when he suddenly stopped his trial, pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter and was sentenced.

Death of the nephew was reported at first to have been due to heart disease, but neighbors whispered among themselves of what had happened and this intelligence finally reached authorities resulting in Mr. and Mrs. Lucking being arrested and indicted.

With Lucking sentenced, his wife was released and the charges against her were dismissed in order that she might return to their four small children.

LAST CHAPTER IN DISASTROUS DIVE OF THE S-51

BODIES OF 4 MEMBERS OF SUBMARINE BURIED IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY

RELATIVES OF 3 OTHERS WISH BURIAL FOR THEM, BUT BODIES NOT FOUND

Washington, July 13.—(UP)—The last chapter in the story of the S-51's disastrous dive to the bottom of the ocean nine months ago is being written here. Bodies of four members of the submarine's heroic crew arrived today and will be interred in Arlington national cemetery, burying ground of the nation's military and naval heroes.

Relatives of three others of the 32 lost on the boat asked the navy department for burial in Arlington, but those bodies have not been recovered.

The bodies of Lieutenant F. D. Foster, Washington; Coxswain Harry D. Elser, Machinist's Mate Rudy Firm, Klein, Mont., and Fireman Charlie C. Thomas, Chillicothe, O., were taken to a receiving vault in a hearse soon after they arrived.

Today, tomorrow or the next day, whenever relatives of the heroes arrive, sailors in blue and white will carry their comrades on their shoulders to newly dug graves. A firing squad will discharge blank shots into the air, a bugler will sound taps and this doleful episode of the navy will be ended.

Chicago, July 13.—(UP)—Approximately 150,000 B. P. O. E. attending the Elks 62nd convention attempted to crowd into convention hall this morning to elect officers and to hear reports of last year's work.

With no opposition Charles H. Grakelow, commissioner of public welfare in Philadelphia, was assured of election to the post of grand exalted ruler. He was nominated by W. F. Kendrick, mayor of Philadelphia.

Of special interest at the meeting was the report of the social and community welfare committee, which spent a total of $2,370,199.44 in charitable work last year, obtained employment for 5,647 jobless men and helped 1,585 aliens become naturalized.

Following the business meeting the delegates attended a yacht race and saw the start of the international balloon race. A grand ball at the municipal pier will complete the day.

CLAIMS THAT HEAVENLY MUSIC HEARD IN WILDS

VERNON EWING PUTS ON A SECOND WORDLESS PRAYER

STAND SILENT FOR AN HOUR AND PRAY IN POPLAR GROVE

Tamarack, Minn., July 13.—(UP)—Vernon Ewing, the prophet of the Minnesota wilds, announced today that his second wordless prayer had been successful in evoking a sign from God.

This sign, Ewing said, was in the form of "heavenly music," which came to the ears of two of the devout while they stood silent for one hour in the outdoor temple that has become a shrine for Ewing's demonstrations of faith.

The prayer was held Sunday, but Ewing did not disclose the results until today. He said 25 persons were in attendance, about as many earnest sinners as supposed-to-be Christians. "They stood for one hour, yielding and submitting to God's will," in the hope of a manifestation.

"The vastness of nature, together with the fact that my wife and another woman heard heavenly music brought the realities of God closer than ever before," Ewing, who is an optometrist, announced.

"We have not heard yet from similar prayers which were to have been held in various parts of the country, but are going ahead with plans for a third prayer."

The third prayer will be limited to 15 minutes in order that little children may take part without becoming restless. It will be held at 10 A. M. on Sunday, July 25, in the poplar grove where the other prayers have been held and similar gatherings will be called in other parts of the country.

Ewing's first prayer was held July 1, but of the 150 persons who attended, practically all were spectators and did not participate. No tangible result was claimed as the result of this prayer.

Robert is a brother of Russell Scott, now awaiting execution on the gallows for the same murder. Robert entered a plea of guilty yesterday and threw himself at the mercy of the court.

Judge William M. Gemmill is expected to take the case under advisement before he passes sentence on Robert.

BEAT NEPHEW TO DEATH WHEN HE LOST 65 CENTS

ANTHONY LUCKING, FARMER, IS TAKEN TO STILLWATER
PENITENTIARY

WILL BEGIN SERVING 1 TO 15
YEAR TERM IN INSTITUTION

Hastings, Minn., July 13.—(UP)—For beating his nephew to death because of the disappearance of 65 cents, Anthony Lucking of Marshan, a farmer, was taken to Stillwater penitentiary today to begin serving a 1 to 15 year term.

Lucking said he believed his nephew, Arthur Manner, 8, had stolen 65 cents and punished him with an automobile tire and a heavy tree branch, knotted at one end. The boy was an orphan and lived with his uncle.

Six jurors had been selected to try Lucking on a charge of second degree murder late Monday when he suddenly stopped his trial, pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter and was sentenced.

Death of the nephew was reported at first to have been due to heart disease, but neighbors whispered among themselves of what had happened and this intelligence finally reached authorities resulting in Mr. and Mrs. Lucking being arrested and indicted.

With Lucking sentenced, his wife was released and the charges against her were dismissed in order that she might return to their four small children.

LAST CHAPTER IN DISASTROUS DIVE OF THE S-51

BODIES OF 4 MEMBERS OF SUB-
MARINE BURIED IN ARLING-
TON CEMETERY

RELATIVES OF 3 OTHERS WISH
BURIAL FOR THEM, BUT BODIES NOT FOUND

Washington, July 13.—(UP)—The last chapter in the story of the S-51's disastrous dive to the bottom of the ocean nine months ago is being written here. Bodies of four members of the submarine's heroic crew arrived today and will be interred in Arlington national cemetery, burying ground of the nation's military and naval heroes.

Relatives of three others of the 32 lost on the boat asked the navy department for burial in Arlington, but those bodies have not been recovered.

The bodies of Lieutenant F. D. Foster, Washington; Coxswain Harry D. Elser, Machinist's Mate Rudy Firm, Klein, Mont., and Fireman Charles C. Thomas, Chillicothe, O., were taken to a receiving vault in a hearse soon after they arrived.

Today, tomorrow or the next day, whenever relatives of the heroes arrive, sailors in blue and white will carry their comrades on their shoulders to newly dug graves. A firing squad will discharge blank shots into the air, a bugler will sound taps and this doleful episode of the navy will be ended.

CLAIMS THAT HEAVENLY MUSIC HEARD IN WILDS

VERNON EWING PUTS ON A SEC-OND WORDLESS
PRAYER

STAND SILENT FOR AN HOUR AND PRAY IN POPLAR GROVE

Tamarack, Minn., July 13.—(UP)—Vernon Ewing, the prophet of the Minnesota wilds, announced today that his second wordless prayer had been successful in evoking a sign from God.

This sign, Ewing said, was in the form of "heavenly music," which came to the ears of two of the devout while they stood silent for one hour in the outdoor temple that has become a shrine for Ewing's demonstrations of faith.

The prayer was held Sunday, but Ewing did not disclose the results until today. He said 25 persons were in attendance, about as many earnest sinners as supposed-to-be Christians. "They stood for one hour, yielding and submitting to God's will," in the hope of a manifestation.

"The vastness of nature, together with the fact that my wife and another woman heard heavenly music brought the realities of God closer than ever before," Ewing, who is an optometrist, announced.

"We have not heard yet from similar prayers which were to have been held in various parts of the country, but are going ahead with plans for a third prayer."

The third prayer will be limited to 15 minutes in order that little children may take part without becoming restless. It will be held at 10 A. M. on Sunday, July 25, in the poplar grove where the other prayers have been held and similar gatherings will be called in other parts of the country.

Ewing's first prayer was held July 1, but of the 150 persons who attended, practically all were spectators and did not participate. No tangible result was claimed as the result of this prayer.

Judge William M. Gemmill is expected to take the case under advisement before he passes sentence on Robert.

The difference in the cost of the construction will be taken from the available funds on hand accumulated for that purpose in part from the state aid fund and the local taxation. E. Morrison, F. M. Hagberg, Fred Drexler, R. W. Crust, and L. F. Hohman; nays: G. D. LaBar, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, George Falconer and S. A. Stanley.

"The aggregate cost of erecting and constructing said new school building not to exceed the sum of $350,000.00; that the proposition of constructing and erecting said new school building on said site, be submitted to the electors of said Brainerd School District at a special election and meeting to be held therein on the 2nd day of November, 1926, between the hours of 6 A. M. and 9 P. M. and that due notice thereof be given as required by law.

Hagberg, Fred Drexler, and L. F. Hohman, while those who opposed it were G. D. LaBar, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, S. A. Stanley and R. W. Crust.

Beige, Gray Worn by Chic Sub-Debs

Three and Four-Piece Combinations Are in Favor for Sports Wear.

There is nothing to which the Parisienne pays closer attention than the dress of her debutante daughter. This, observes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune, is easily understood. For the well-brought-up young girl in France is allowed little or no freedom until she has been led to the altar, and the family makes many sacrifices to provide her with the necessary dot without which she will not easily find a mari.

The vogue for sport has been the salvation of the French jeune fille. It has emancipated her from frocks that were almost nun-like in their simplicity. Now, like her mother, she has the smartest two-piece dresses, and three or four-piece ensembles. As she is usually athletic and glad to indulge in the games for which all women dress nowadays, the French debutante makes beige or gray the foundation of her wardrobe. This makes things easy, for then she may vary it with the pink, blue or green hats she may wear with the more ceremonious dress that serves for a cousin's wedding, a garden party given by a French duchess, or the dante.

Simplicity, therefore, is the keynote of her wardrobe. Her frocks are straight in line, always retaining the necessary fullness that gives freedom of movement and shows grace by means of plaits that are cleverly arranged at the side and are placed at the center back and front. Her skirts just pass her knees. Her shoes are always simple. She is not allowed to indulge in any of the cubistic fancies of the moment. For outdoor wear she generally has plain brown leather sandals, with a single instep strap, the heel adapted to her size, low if she is very tall, high if she is petite. Like her mother, she always wears beige flesh-colored silk stockings, or perhaps a silk and woolen mixture for playing golf. With smart frocks or evening gowns she has beige satin pumps.

Nothing Somber About Stylish Black Dresses

The status of black remains unchanged. Earlier in the season it was quite apparent that black had regained its prestige of a few years ago and was destined for a vogue greater than it had ever enjoyed. Summer modes confirm its importance and the black frock, whether it appears in a simple little street model of tailored aspect, a subtle affair of chiffon or georgette designed for afternoon wear, or a frock composed of many founces of lace for evening is unquestionably the smart frock of the season.

There is nothing somber about the black dresses of this summer, nothing that is dull or uninteresting. So cleverly are they designed and so skillfully fashioned that oftentimes they have far more allure than those of more brilliant colors. Frequently the contrast is achieved by pipings and bandings of a vivid tone.

Cubist Hats

Eccentric hats are the latest vogue in London. Some have braiding in silver and bright colors are seen with eccentric brims and crowns, the colors of which must be in violent contrast with the suit or frock with which they are worn. Ribbons stray at will across these hats and dangle from unexpected places.

Blouses for Summer

Kipling once said that an oriental never became civilized until he tucked in his shirt. According to that, the blouses to be worn this summer are, highly civilized. Except in extraordinary cases the tunic blouse for day wear has given place to the blouse which is worn under the skirt and confined with a belt.

Polka Dots, Big Hats Worn by "Movie" Girls

Polka dots and big hats—one of the newest fads in Hollywood. Here is shown an ensemble of red flat crepe, with a loose coat of red, with white dots. The enormous hat is also brilliant red.

Do Not Use Taffeta in Hit-or-Miss Fashion

The vogue of taffeta has subsided a bit. By that one does not mean that it has lost its prestige or that it is looked upon as dowdy. It has merely become more definitely established as a fabric adapted to certain purposes and not to be used in the rather hit-or-miss fashion that was the case with some designers earlier in the season.

For the dance frock for the younger girl or for the very slender and youthful-looking woman nothing is more charming than taffeta. It has a crispness of line that is delightfully insouciant. The contrast between the slim, boyish figures and sleek little heads of the wearers and the essentially feminine silhouette of the taffeta frock makes for piquancy. In many instances the frock is accompanied by a cape of the same material, lined with chiffon and collared with fur or with a huge shirred or rolled collar of the material.

Checks of All Sizes in Fashion Limelight

Every spring brings forth the check. Checks of all sizes and upon all kinds of wool fabrics are given a most important place this season. They are in black and white, great black squares upon huge white spaces or the tiny pin-point check—all a matter of your own discretion or sporting blood.

The smart tailleur with its short coat and waistcoat seems to favor the small check. Many of these suits are made up in green and white checks or, for the more conservative, a dark brown check which is not quite so sporty as the black-and-white combination.

But the tailleur with the three-quarters length coat boasts of the big check, three and four inches square. Black and white makes the most dazzling effect, although many suits are to be found in deep purples and dark reds.

Three Silhouettes on Summer Fashion List

Not one, but three silhouettes are the outstanding features of the fashions of summer. One reflects the continued vogue of slender, straight lines, another shows the flare at the bottom and the third introduces a newer line in the bloused back and the cape draperies.

Of these three the straight line silhouette is a bit more generally in evidence, due no doubt to the fact that it is more generally becoming.

The New Static Line

Fashionable Paris offers, and New York pays attention to, the "moderately static" silhouette. This independent understudy of the leading flare expresses its lines in box plaits, stitched in from shoulder to hem, in unyielding straight-line skirts of smart tailored suits, in cleverly scant-cut coat dresses. If this "static" line does not supersede last season's smart and practical "kinetic" line on the avenues, it probably will have its vogue on downtown streets and in business offices.

Slips Without Straps

Slips of newer type have no shoulder straps. This is particularly true of the evening slip which is worn under sheer chiffon frocks. The slip is fitted with elastic about the top which prevents it from slipping. If one wears a brassiere it may be fastened to the brassiere with tiny snappers since the brassiere generally has shoulder straps. The brassiere worn under the dance frock has straps to match the frock or straps of silver.

W. H. Triplett

Little Visits Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Monday morning we first called upon one of the early settlers in Maple Grove, Mrs. Andrew Olson who has lived on the place for over 40 years. Mrs. Olson's son George is renting the place as the old folks have retired.

Glen Alexander formerly worked in the shops at Brainerd, as a machinist where he worked five years. But he too, became tired of being "off again, on again," and moved on the farm this spring. He now has five cows and has a good set of buildings considering the time he has been on the place. If he progresses as swiftly the next few months as he has in the past, he will certainly succeed. He spent several months in the 85th Division which was located at Texas.

Monday and Saturday seems to be the writers "off" days as we always find a large percent of the farmers gone. Today we failed to see J. M. Phillips, F. S. Segler, and many others whose names we did not learn.

C. R. Bate was working on a well at the school house but his son informed me that they have farmed 160 acres for the past 10 years and are planning on building a new 34x90 barn in the spring which will enable them to give better care to the 15 cows they are milking at the present time. They have a small plot of alfalfa that is coming along fine considering the drawbacks crops had this spring.

Wm. Roloff works at a little of everything and at present would like a position of some sort that will bring in at least enough to keep his family. He is renting the house, and has a few chickens and a cow to help keep him busy when not employed.

J. J. Johnson formerly lived at Crow Wing but bought Nelson's farm which consists of 80 acres this spring and is now getting nicely started.

Otto Ostby formerly lived in Roseau county but believing opportunities greater in Crow Wing, rented 80 acres and moved on it this spring and is now getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. M. Hanson has lived in a little log house by herself for the past seven years. She has 40 acres but rents it out to the neighbors.

A. E. Thayer formerly lived in Brainerd being there 37 years, but moved out on his farm two years ago. The place borders the shore of Chryslar Lake. Mrs. Thayer is one of our many church workers who has done a great deal in improving conditions in the community.

Frank Palmer is another new farmer in the community, renting 240 acres, 160 of which are under cultivation. His brother George helps him do the farm work. We found Frank cultivating corn this afternoon although he found it rather wet to plow good.

Nels Larson was at Charlie Jones' helping to build a log house. We had an interesting visit with his two daughters and learned that they formerly lived in Wisconsin, but have farmed this place in Crow Wing county for the last 13 years. Their oldest son Hans who has spent the last three years in the army and is located at Maryland, plans on being home in two weeks.

Walter Inwards used to farm where the tall corn grows but came to Minnesota 12 years ago. Today I found him overseeing the road work. Mrs. Inwards spent a few days with her father and mother in the Black Hills, S. D. She reports that crops look fine there and the alfalfa fields are magnificent flower beds.

Today we found the chuck-holes in the roads filled up with water and roads also muddy and somewhat winding. However we enjoy these winding roads as one sees some mighty pretty views that are as good or better than a tour of California or Florida.

Earliest Alphabets

About 1900 B. C. the Semite people adopted Egyptian symbols. Cadmus, of Egyptian descent, introduced into Greece from Phoenicia an alphabet of 10 letters. Additions were made to these later by the Greeks, until in about 400 B. C. they had 24 letters. The other two were added in the Thirteenth century.

Come Out of the Kitchen!

Grandmother might have been shocked by such a suggestion, for she was "kitchen-minded" from necessity.

For some years, Swift & Company, however, has been working to relieve the modern housewife of continuous kitchen work. Now, in addition to the many less expensive cuts adaptable to steam pressure and fireless cooker preparation, the housewife has the service of cooked meats.

"Ready-to-serve" meats are now available everywhere, for Swift & Company's nationwide channels of distribution offer prompt and direct service to retailers.

These meats, in great variety and delightfully appetizing, have revolutionized the work of the housewife, especially during the hot summer months.

Such products as:

Swift's Premium Cooked Ham
Swift's Premium Minced Specialty
Swift's Premium Bologna
Swift's Baked Luncheon Loaf
Swift's Pimento Sandwich Meats
Swift's Sterling Delicacy

are available throughout the year. This is another feature of "Swift Service" — and a timely use of them will vary the monotony of ordinary meals.

There is a "ready-to-serve" meat for every taste—a score or more of meat delicacies for hot summer days.

Health—A Live Subject At Afternoon Teas

It is under such circumstances that experiences are exchanged and women tell one another what treatments have been of most benefit to them.

It is a pretty safe guess that in these tete-a-tetes no medicine is so frequently mentioned as Dr. Chase's Tonic Pills and there is a very good reason why.

Any physician will tell you that most of the ailments which most bother women are due to lowered vitality.

In these days of surgical specialists the operation is too frequently the first thing recommended, whereas, in many cases,

Beige, Gray Worn by Chic Sub-Debs

Three and Four-Piece Combinations Are in Favor for Sports Wear.

There is nothing to which the Parisienne pays closer attention than the dress of her debutante daughter. This, observes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune, is easily understood. For the well-brought-up young girl in France is allowed little or no freedom until she has been led to the altar, and the family makes many sacrifices to provide her with the necessary dot without which she will not easily find a marl.

The vogue for sport has been the salvation of the French jeune fille. It has emancipated her from frocks that were almost nun-like in their simplicity. Now, like her mother, she has the smartest two-piece dresses, and three or four-piece ensembles. As she is usually athletic and glad to indulge in the games for which all women dress nowadays, the French debutante makes beige or gray the foundation of her wardrobe. This makes things easy, for then she may vary it with the pink, blue or green hats she may wear with the more ceremonious dress that serves for a cousin's wedding, a garden party given by a French duchess, or the daisant.

Simplicity, therefore, is the keynote of her wardrobe. Her frocks are straight in line, always retaining the necessary fullness that gives freedom of movement and shows grace by means of plaits that are cleverly arranged at the side and are placed at the center back and front. Her skirts just pass her knees. Her shoes are always simple. She is not allowed to indulge in any of the cubistic fancies of the moment. For outdoor wear she generally has plain brown leather sandals, with a single instep strap, the heel adapted to her size, low if she is very tall, high if she is petite. Like her mother, she always wears beige flesh-colored silk stockings, or perhaps a silk and woolen mixture for playing golf. With smart frocks or evening gowns she has beige satin pumps.

Nothing Somber About Stylish Black Dresses

The status of black remains unchanged. Earlier in the season it was quite apparent that black had regained its prestige of a few years ago and was destined for a vogue greater than it had ever enjoyed. Summer modes confirm its importance and the black frock, whether it appears in a simple little street model of tailored aspect, a subtle affair of chiffon or georgette designed for afternoon wear, or a frock composed of many flounces of lace for evening is unquestionably the smart frock of the season.

There is nothing somber about the black dresses of this summer, nothing that is dull or uninteresting. So cleverly are they designed and so skillfully fashioned that oftentimes they have far more allure than those of more brilliant colors. Frequently the contrast is achieved by pipings and bandings of a vivid tone.

Cubist Hats

Eccentric hats are the latest vogue in London. Some have braiding in silver and bright colors are seen with eccentric brims and crowns, the colors of which must be in violent contrast with the suit or frock with which they are worn. Ribbons stray at will across these hats and dangle from unexpected places.

Blouses for Summer

Kipling once said that an oriental never became civilized until he tucked in his shirt. According to that, the blouses to be worn this summer are highly civilized. Except in extraordinary cases the tunic blouse for day wear has given place to the blouse which is worn under the skirt and confined with a belt.

Polka Dots, Big Hats Worn by "Movie" Girls

Polka dots and big hats—one of the newest fads in Hollywood. Here is shown an ensemble of red flat crepe, with a loose coat of red, with white dots. The enormous hat is also brilliant red.

Do Not Use Taffeta in Hit-or-Miss Fashion

The vogue of taffeta has subsided a bit. By that one does not mean that it has lost its prestige or that it is looked upon as dowdy. It has merely become more definitely established as a fabric adapted to certain purposes and not to be used in the rather hit-or-miss fashion that was the case with some designers earlier in the season.

For the dance frock for the younger girl for the very slender and youthful-looking woman nothing is more charming than taffeta. It has a crispness of line that is delightfully insouciant. The contrast between the slim, boyish figures and sleek little heads of the wearers and the essentially feminine silhouette of the taffeta frock makes for piquancy. In many instances the frock is accompanied by a cape of the same material, lined with chiffon and collared with fur or with a huge shirred or rolled collar of the material.

Checks of All Sizes in Fashion Limelight

Every spring brings forth the check. Checks of all sizes and upon all kinds of wool fabrics are given a most important place this season. They are in black and white, great black squares upon huge white spaces or the tiny pin-point check—all a matter of your own discretion or sporting blood.

The smart tailleur with its short coat and waistcoat seems to favor the small check. Many of these suits are made up in green and white checks or, for the more conservative, a dark brown check which is not quite so sporty as the black-and-white combination.

But the tailleur with the three-quarters length coat boasts of the big check, three and four inches square. Black and white makes the most dazzling effect, although many suits are to be found in deep purples and dark reds.

Three Silhouettes on Summer Fashion List

Not one, but three silhouettes are the outstanding features of the fashions of summer. One reflects the continued vogue of slender, straight lines, another shows the flare at the bottom and the third introduces a newer line in the blouse back and the cape draperies.

Of these three the straight line silhouette is a bit more generally in evidence, due no doubt to the fact that it is more generally becoming.

The New Static Line

Fashionable Paris offers, and New York pays attention to, the "moderately static" silhouette. This independent understudy of the leading flare expresses its lines in box plaits, stitched in from shoulder to hem, in unyielding straight-line skirts of smart tailored suits, in cleverly scant-cut coat dresses. If this "static" line does not supersede last season's smart and practical "kinetic" line on the avenues, it probably will have its vogue on downtown streets and in business offices.

Slips Without Straps

Slips of never type have no shoulder straps. This is particularly true of the evening slip which is worn under sheer chiffon frocks. The slip is fitted with elastic about the top which prevents it from slipping. If one wears a brassiere it may be fastened to the brassiere with tiny snappers since the brassiere generally has shoulder straps. The brassiere worn under the dance frock has straps to match the frock or straps of silver.

W. H. Triplett

Little Visits Around the Rural Section

Written especially for the Dispatch by W. H. Triplett, travelling editor for this paper and The Farmer of St. Paul.

Monday morning we first called upon one of the early settlers in Maple Grove, Mrs. Andrew Olson who has lived on the place for over 40 years. Mrs. Olson's son George is renting the place as the old folks have retired.

Glen Alexander formerly worked in the shops at Brainerd, as a machinist where he worked five years. But he too, became tired of being "off again, on again," and moved on the farm this spring. He now has five cows and has a good set of buildings considering the time he has been on the place. If he progresses as swiftly the next few months as he has in the past, he will certainly succeed. He spent several months in the 85th Division which was located at Texas.

Monday and Saturday seems to be the writers "off" days as we always find a large percent of the farmers gone. Today we failed to see J. M. Phillips, F. S. Segler, and many others whose names we did not learn.

C. R. Bater was working on a well at the school house but his son informed me that they have farmed 160 acres for the past 10 years and are planning on building a new 34x90 barn in the spring which will enable them to give better care to the 15 cows they are milking at the present time. They have a small plot of alfalfa that is coming along fine considering the drawbacks crops had this spring.

Wm. Roloff works at a little of everything and at present would like a position of some sort that will bring in at least enough to keep his family. He is renting the house, and has a few chickens and a cow to help keep him busy when not employed.

J. J. Johnson formerly lived at Crow Wing but bought Nelson's farm which consists of 80 acres this spring and is now getting nicely started.

Otto Ostby formerly lived in Roseau county but believing opportunities greater in Crow Wing, rented 80 acres and moved on it this spring and is now getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. M. Hanson has lived in a little log house by herself for the past seven years. She has 40 acres but rents it out to the neighbors.

A. E. Thayer formerly lived in Brainerd being there 37 years, but moved out on his farm two years ago. The place borders the shore of Chrysler Lake. Mrs. Thayer is one of our many church workers who has done a great deal in improving conditions in the community.

Frank Palmer is another new farmer in the community, renting 240 acres, 160 of which are under cultivation. His brother George helps him do the farm work. We found Frank cultivating corn this afternoon although he found it rather wet to plow good.

Nels Larson was at Charlie Jones' helping to build a log house. We had an interesting visit with his two daughters and learned that they formerly lived in Wisconsin, but have farmed this place in Crow Wing county for the last 13 years. Their oldest son Hans who has spent the last three years in the army and is located at Maryland, plans on being home in two weeks.

Walter Inwards used to farm where the tall tall corn grows but came to Minnesota 12 years ago. Today I found him overseeing the road work. Mrs. Inwards spent a few days with her father and mother in the Black Hills, S. D. She reports that crops look fine there and the alfalfa fields are magnificent flower beds.

Today we found the chuck-holes in the roads filled up with water and roads also muddy and somewhat winding. However we enjoy these winding roads as one sees some mighty pretty views that are as good or better than a tour of California or Florida.

Come Out of the Kitchen!

Grandmother might have been shocked by such a suggestion, for she was "kitchen-minded" from necessity.

For some years, Swift & Company, however, has been working to relieve the modern housewife of continuous kitchen work. Now, in addition to the many less expensive cuts adaptable to steam pressure and fireless cooker preparation, the housewife has the service of cooked meats.

"Ready-to-serve" meats are now available everywhere, for Swift & Company's nationwide channels of distribution offer prompt and direct service to retailers.

These meats, in great variety and delightfully appetizing, have revolutionized the work of the housewife, especially during the hot summer months.

Health—A Live Subject At Afternoon Teas

IT is under such circumstances that experiences are exchanged and women tell one another what treatments have been of most benefit to them.

It is a pretty safe guess that in these tete-a-tetes no medicine is so frequently mentioned as Dr. Chase's Tonic Pills and there is a very good reason why.

Any physician will tell you that most of the ailments which most bother women are due to lowered vitality.

In these days of surgical specialists the operation is too frequently the first thing recommended, whereas, in many cases, restored vitality would enable nature to restore the natural functions to the deranged organs.

Lowered vitality may come from the strain of irregular hours, loss of rest and sleep, too much excitement or worry.

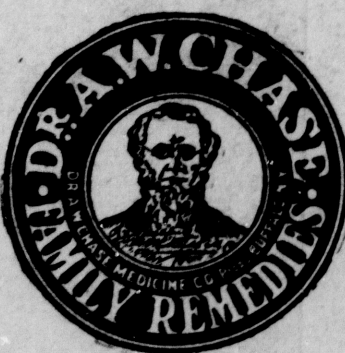

It may also result from lack of proper nourishment, from over-eating or from sedentary habits.

When vitality runs low there is no end to the troubles that may arise and you are an easy prey to colds, pneumonia and all sorts of germ diseases.

Restorative treatment is demanded and because Dr. Chase's Tonic Pills have proven to be the greatest of restoratives of the blood and nerve force is why they are so greatly appreciated by women everywhere.

Put these popular restoratives to the test when you find yourself nervous, irritable and sleepless, or suffer from indigestion, headaches or tired, depressed feelings.

You will soon be convinced of their merits and will realize then why so many thousands of women find a joy in telling their friends of benefits received.

ROMANS KNEW VALUE OF CONCRETE

PERUSING an Editor's Reference Book on Cement and Concrete published by the Portland Cement Association one finds that the early Romans experimented with concrete.

Two thousand years ago the Roman builders were not only extensive users of cement but also were interested in obtaining better concrete through experimentation.

In viewing the foundations of the Forum structures as they stand today, the observer finds proof that the early craftsmen were not in accord as regarded the use of coarse aggregate, the broken stones they mixed with cement, sand, and water to form concrete. In the effort to secure a better concrete some Roman builders laid the concrete in layers, alternate layers being made with different stones. Others preferred to mix the different kinds of rocks together and the concrete was dumped in the forms in one mass without distinction as to layers. This is the method used by builders of the present day.

Yet with their unscientifically manufactured cement, made from volcanic ash and lime obtained from burnt marble, and their haphazard mixing methods, the ancient Romans built concrete foundations which appear to be as sturdy today as they were during the life-time of Julius Caesar.

The question is frequently asked: "Why did not the Romans utilize cement in building high structures?" The answer is simple. The Romans had no knowledge of reinforcing concrete and consequently cement was chiefly used in foundations and as mortar.

But they did understand unreinforced concrete, for an examination of the foundations of the Forum buildings shows that the concrete is still without a crack or a fracture. The markings from the grain of the wood forms are as plainly visible as though the imprint was made yesterday rather than over 2,000 years ago.

Famous old world structures in which concrete was used are the Pantheon, Coliseum, Temple of Romulus, Palace of Augustus, Temple of Julius, and Arch of Titus.

The Romans made their cement by mixing slaked lime with ashes deposited by Vesuvius and other less famous volcanoes. So without the aid of the laboratories of the present day the Romans made cement which served their purpose well, even though their product was not at all uniform. The cement of the Romans also had the desirable characteristic of modern cement in that it would harden under water—a quality highly essential to modern building.

Yet after all there is a wide gulf between the cement of early Rome and the product which is used so extensively today. After the fall of the Roman empire cement making, along with a good many other arts, disappeared for a time and was not revived until the middle of the eighteenth century. But after its rediscovery the changes in manufacturing methods came about rapidly until the present highly scientific cement was developed.

Joseph Aspdin invented portland cement. Although this had its origin in Europe, the United States is the cement capital of the world. The 92 manufacturers of portland cement in this country make more of this product than all the rest of the world combined.

It is cement which has made possible the hard road system. With 20,000,000 more motor vehicles now on the nation's roadways than there were twenty years ago, it is no wonder that highway building has come to be one of the country's chief industries.

Take Brainerd, for instance, and see the wide use accorded cement. We have concrete lamp posts, concrete water tower, concrete smoke stacks, cement paving, cement walks, cement blocks, cement floors, cement piers and foundations, cement bridges near by, concrete drains, concrete sewers and manholes, concrete chimneys, concrete houses, concrete garages, etc., etc.

THE report that the Anti-Saloon League wants Gov. Christianson to remove sheriffs alleged to be more or less indifferent to the enforcement of the 18th amendment, may or may not be true. Just how active a sheriff ought to be should be measured by the public sentiment back of him. There are counties we might name where a moonmaker or bootlegger never has been convicted, and where jurymen are apparently in sympathy with the law breakers. Would a sheriff be justified in staging extensive raids when the chances are that not a guilty man would be convicted, putting a burden on the taxpayers, only to make a sorry joke of the law? The moonshiners of these same counties, when arrested by federal officers and taken to the federal courts, almost invariably plead guilty, when in their own home counties they would insist upon their innocence, and be cleared by the jury. It is a perplexing question. If a sheriff should be removed by the governor in one of these counties, he probably would be re-elected by a big majority. Gov. Christianson is clever enough to give any such proposition, if put up to him, due deliberation.—St. Cloud Daily Journal Press.

GLEN FRANK does not like uniformity in all things. He says "America is developing a sort of secular religion. Its God is organization and its creed is conformity. To be right is to be regular—in politics, in religion, in all the major adventures of the crowd. We give our confidence and our vote to the man who has been roped and branded and assigned to one of the well-known ranches, one of the regular parties, denominations or classes."

In winning the farmer-labor nomination for governor in the recent primary election, Magnus Johnson gained the right to be beaten by Theodore Christianson in November, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette.

MINNESOTA butter is so good and so well advertised that sneak thieves are entering creameries and stealing all they can lay hands on. The Tamarack creamery recently lost 50 pounds that way.

NEW YORK city is in a traffic jam as a result of a strike of subway railmen, Northern Minnesota—the nation's best playground—was in a similar jam July 4 and 5, says the Pillager Herald.

BATTLE LAKE is building a new creamery to cost $16,000. Machinery of a type capable of handling cream enough to produce 1,000,000 pounds of butter is to be installed.

RE-WEDDINGS seem to be popular out at Park Rapids. We notice two recorded in the Enterprise last week.

Her Romantic Engagement

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

EVERYONE used to remark to the Chisholm girls, "How lovely it must be to be twins!" But Janice Chisholm always had to stifle the impulse to add, "Lovely for which twin?"

Janice was so quiet, so retiring, so unaggressive that she was invariably eclipsed in a crowd by her livelier sister Jean.

It was perhaps but natural that by the time the girls had reached twenty, Janice had had but one proposal—and that just a blunt "Let's get married some day" from Bill Davis, who lived next door—while Jean had had three honest-to-goodness name-the-day offers from really eligible young men.

As it happened, the last one of the trio, a handsome young doctor by the name of Elliot Shepard, had met Jean through Janice, who had brought him home to supper one night after a football game. He had developed into a sort of friend of the family and then, from that advantageous springboard, had leaped into love with Jean.

But Jean did not accept him. On the contrary she assumed an indifference of attitude which plucked Elliot and puzzled everybody else.

In desperation Janice evoked a scheme whereby Jean should feel free to "be nice to Elliot." But in order to carry out her idea, she found it necessary to take into confidence and connivance the youth who had wanted to be married some day.

"Billy," she broached the subject as they sat on the veranda steps in the twilight, "do you remember asking me to marry you some time, and what I said?"

"Of course," said Bill. "You said the idea was nonsense. That you wanted true romance in your life. That nothing ordinary and everyday would satisfy you. That—"

"All right," broke in Janice. "I still feel the same way. But I'd like to pretend to be engaged. Not publicly, but just to the family. If Jean thinks I'm engaged to you, she'll be engaged to Elliot."

"I don't know," objected Billy. "It sounds to me more like a scheme to make young Shepard jealous." "Nonsense," said Janice. "Of course, if you won't do it, you won't. But I did think, just as a favor to me, you'd agree," she finally finished plaintively. "I will," said Bill, after a moment. "Just when does the arrangement start?"

"Now," returned Janice promptly, but when Bill, with a grin, started to put his arm about her slender waist, she wriggled from the embrace like a young eel. It was evident she wanted the name without the game. Janice told her sister right away. "I'm engaged to Billy," she said. "Congratulate me."

For a second Jean looked doubtful as one who hears something quite too good to be true. Then she flew to Janice. "You darling! I just can't believe it, but we know Bill adores the ground you tread on, and he's a perfect old dear, anyhow!"

Three days later, the announcement of the engagement of Miss Jean Chisholm to the rising young physician Elliot Shepard, was spread through the community. Jean herself went about with an expression of bliss upon her pretty face that was lovely to see. Janice watching her, wondered how it would seem to be so utterly sure of herself, and of the man she was going to marry.

She had seen very little of Bill. An occasional call to help out the fiction of their betrothal, but that was all. He had not tried again to presume upon their temporary relationship and had treated her indifferently, if not coldly.

But on the afternoon following the announcement of her twin's engagement, Bill hunted up Janice deliberately and found her cooling off after a strenuous game of tennis, her hair clinging to her forehead in damp little tendrils.

"Come for a walk," he begged. "I've just got to see you."

Curious, Janice yielded, and they strolled from the courts down along the winding river whose surface sparkled in the afternoon sun.

At a bend in the road where they were screened from observers, Bill stopped short. "Look here, Janice," he said abruptly. "We've got to end this farce right away, now that it's accomplished what you wished. I'm sick of it."

"Why—why—Billy!" cried the girl. Then, quietly, "Somebody else?"

"Of course not," snapped Bill. "I simply won't play as a joke that which I would give my soul to have real!" Janice drew in her breath.

"Oh-o-o-oh," she said. "I see. But—couldn't it be real?"

Bill looked for a moment as if suddenly bereft of his senses. "But you said—" he began.

"That I wanted romance," said Janice. "Well, I did. And don't you think it has been romantic? To get engaged without really being engaged to help somebody else get engaged?" Her tone was triumphant.

"What I think," said Bill joyfully, "is that you're a fraud and a goose. And I don't suppose I'll ever know whether you had this in mind from the beginning, or whether you're using it now as a hole to crawl out of."

"No," said Janice impulsively, "you never will!"

But this time, when he slipped his arm about her, she let it stay there and lifted her lips to meet his kiss.

From the Daily Dispatch

July 12, 1901

At the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. held for the purpose of erecting six directors of the association the following were selected: Chas. Bodeen and E. D. Wilkins, three years; Chas. Leak and H. D. Wright, two years; Gust Carlson and Wm. Erickson, one year. These six gentlemen will serve in addition to the nine already in position. It was decided at the meeting in April to increase the number.

Last night there was a meeting of those interested in getting a band for Brainerd and the organization was completed with Wm. Graham as leader.

The following officers were elected:

President—James McPherson.
Secretary—O. A. Peterson.
Treasurer—George Putts.
Manager—John Imgrund.

The band will be open for all engagements after a week or two. A meeting will be held in an evening or two to select players, etc.

During the recent "hike" of the third regiment across country, Capt. Lee, of Stillwater, caught a good picture of Capt. S. R. Adair and Chief Wadena, an Indian from the reservation. Capt. Adair was in the act of taking a pipe from the old chief but the two look as if they were posing for a "united we stand, divided we fall" picture.

Will Olson who so long ran the Arlington hotel barber shop now has a shop of his own. He has rented the small building on Seventh street south next to the Arena saloon. He has one of the neatest little shops in the city, well equipped throughout with all the accessories necessary to conduct a first class tonsorial parlor.

Charles Kreech returned today from Denver, Ia.

Frank H. Hall, the cruiser, has gone to Arkansas Hot Springs.

Fred Johns returned today from a trip over the Minnesota and International.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Whitlock have gone to Long Lake for a few days outing.

Mrs. W. A. Fleming and daughter left today for the coast to spend two or three months.

Miss Mabel Harrison and Miss Ella Groves have gone to Gull Lake for a few days outing.

Mrs. S. E. Hoffman is in the city, a guest of H. B. Hoffman, her son, the popular insurance man.

Tom Cromwell, at one time a resident here, but who left Brainerd some four years ago and was reported to have been frozen to death in a Dakota blizzard, has returned to take up his residence here again. Mr. Cromwell has been in the West and South but says after years of wandering that Crow Wing county is good enough for him.

ROMANS KNEW VALUE OF CONCRETE

PERUSING an Editor's Reference Book on Cement and Concrete published by the Portland Cement Association one finds that the early Romans experimented with concrete.

Two thousand years ago the Roman builders were not only extensive users of cement but also were interested in obtaining better concrete through experimentation.

In viewing the foundations of the Forum structures as they stand today, the observer finds proof that the early craftsmen were not in accord as regarded the use of coarse aggregate, the broken stones they mixed with cement, sand, and water to form concrete. In the effort to secure a better concrete some Roman builders laid the concrete in layers, alternate layers being made with different stones. Others preferred to mix the different kinds of rocks together and the concrete was dumped in the forms in one mass without distinction as to layers. This is the method used by builders of the present day.

Yet with their unscientifically manufactured cement, made from volcanic ash and lime obtained from burnt marble, and their haphazard mixing methods, the ancient Romans built concrete foundations which appear to be as sturdy today as they were during the life-time of Julius Caesar.

The question is frequently asked: "Why did not the Romans utilize cement in building high structures?" The answer is simple. The Romans had no knowledge of reinforcing concrete and consequently cement was chiefly used in foundations and as mortar.

But they did understand unreinforced concrete, for an examination of the foundations of the Forum buildings shows that the concrete is still without a crack or a fracture. The markings from the grain of the wood forms are as plainly visible as though the imprint was made yesterday rather than over 2,000 years ago. Famous old world structures in which concrete was used are the Pantheon, Coliseum, Temple of Romulus, Palace of Augustus, Temple of Julius, and Arch of Titus.

The Romans made their cement by mixing slaked lime with ashes deposited by Vesuvius and other less famous volcanoes. So without the aid of the laboratories of the present day the Romans made cement which served their purpose well, even though their product was not at all uniform. The cement of the Romans also had the desirable characteristic of modern cement in that it would harden under water—a quality highly essential to modern building.

Yet after all there is a wide gulf between the cement of early Rome and the product which is used so extensively today. After the fall of the Roman empire cement making, along with a good many other arts, disappeared for a time and was not revived until the middle of the eighteenth century. But after its rediscovery the changes in manufacturing methods came about rapidly until the present highly scientific cement was developed.

Joseph Aspdin invented portland cement. Although this had its origin in Europe, the United States is the cement capital of the world. The 92 manufacturers of portland cement in this country make more of this product than all the rest of the world combined.

It is cement which has made possible the hard road system. With 20,000,000 more motor vehicles now on the nation's roadways than there were twenty years ago, it is no wonder that highway building has come to be one of the country's chief industries.

Take Brainerd, for instance, and see the wide use accorded cement. We have concrete lamp posts, concrete water tower, concrete smoke stacks, cement paving, cement walks, cement blocks, cement floors, cement piers and foundations, cement bridges near by, concrete drains, concrete sewers and manholes, concrete chimneys, concrete houses, concrete garages, etc., etc.

THE report that the Anti-Saloon League wants Gov. Christianson to remove sheriffs alleged to be more or less indifferent to the enforcement of the 18th amendment, may or may not be true. Just how active a sheriff ought to be should be measured by the public sentiment back of him. There are counties we might name where a moonmaker or bootlegger never has been convicted, and where juries are apparently in sympathy with the law breakers. Would a sheriff be justified in staging extensive raids when the chances are that not a guilty man would be convicted, putting a burden on the taxpayers, only to make a sorry joke of the law? The moonshiners of these same counties, when arrested by federal officers and taken to the federal courts, almost invariably plead guilty, when in their own home counties they would insist upon their innocence, and be cleared by the jury. It is a perplexing question. If a sheriff should be removed by the governor in one of these counties, he probably would be re-elected by a big majority. Gov. Christianson is clever enough to give any such proposition, if put up to him, due deliberation.—St. Cloud Daily Journal Press.

GLEN FRANK does not like uniformity in all things. He says "America is developing a sort of secular religion. Its God is organization and its creed is conformity. To be right is to be regular—in politics, in religion, in all the major adventures of the crowd. We give our confidence and our vote to the man who has been roped and branded and assigned to one of the well-known ranches, one of the regular parties, denominations or classes."

In winning the farmer-labor nomination for governor in the recent primary election, Magnus Johnson gained the right to be beaten by Theodore Christianson in November, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette.

MINNESOTA butter is so good and so well advertised that sneak thieves are entering creameries and stealing all they can lay hands on. The Tamarack creamery recently lost 50 pounds that way.

NEW YORK city is in a traffic jam as a result of a strike of subway railmen, Northern Minnesota—the nation's best playground—was in a similar jam July 4 and 5, says the Pillager Herald.

BATTLE LAKE is building a new creamery to cost $16,000. Machinery of a type capable of handling cream enough to produce 1,000,000 pounds of butter is to be installed.

RE-WEDDINGS seem to be popular out at Park Rapids. We notice two recorded in the Enterprise last week.

Her Romantic Engagement

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

EVERYONE used to remark to the Chisholm girls, "How lovely it must be to be twins!"

But Janice Chisholm always had to stifle the impulse to add, "Lovely for which twin?"

Janice was so quiet, so retiring, so unassuming that she was invariably eclipsed in a crowd by her livelier sister Jean.

It was perhaps but natural that by the time the girls had reached twenty, Janice had had but one proposal—and that just a blunt "Let's get married some day" from Bill Davis, who lived next door—while Jean had had three honest-to-goodness name-the-day offers from really eligible young men.

As it happened, the last one of the trio, a handsome young doctor by the name of Elliot Shepard, had met Jean through Janice, who had brought him home to supper one night after a football game. He had developed into a sort of friend of the family and then, from that advantageous springboard, had leaped into love with Jean.

But Jean did not accept him. On the contrary she assumed an indifference of attitude which plagued Elliot and puzzled everybody else.

In desperation Janice evoked a scheme whereby Jean should feel free to "be nice to Elliot." But in order to carry out her idea, she found it necessary to take into confidence and convince the youth who had wanted to be married some day.

"Billy," she broached the subject as they sat on the veranda steps in the twilight, "do you remember asking me to marry you some time, and what I said?"

"Of course," said Bill. "You said the idea was nonsense. That you wanted true romance in your life. That nothing ordinary and everyday would satisfy you. That—"

"All right," broke in Janice. "I still feel the same way. But I'd like to pretend to be engaged. Not publicly, but just to the family. If Jean thinks I'm engaged to you, she'll be engaged to Elliot."

"I don't know," objected Billy. "It sounds to me more like a scheme to make young Shepard jealous."

"Nonsense," said Janice. "Of course, if you won't do it, you won't. But I did think, just as a favor to me, you'd agree," she finally finished plaintively.

"I will," said Billy, after a moment. "Just when does the arrangement start?"

"Now," returned Janice promptly, but when Bill, with a grin, started to put his arm about her slender waist, she wriggled from the embrace like a young eel. It was evident she wanted the name without the game.

Janice told her sister right away. "I'm engaged to Billy," she said. "Congratulations!"

For a second Jean looked doubtful as one who hears something quite too good to be true. Then she flew to Janice. "You darling! I just can't believe it, but we know Bill adores the ground you tread on, and he's a perfect old dear, anyhow!"

Three days later, the announcement of the engagement of Miss Jean Chisholm to the rising young physician Elliot Shepard, was spread through the community. Jean herself went about with an expression of bliss upon her pretty face that was lovely to see. Janice watching her, wondered how it would seem to be so utterly sure of herself, and of the man she was going to marry.

She had seen very little of Bill. An occasional call to help out the fiction of their betrothal, but that was all. He had not tried again to presume upon their temporary relationship and had treated her indifferently, if not coldly.

But on the afternoon following the announcement of her twin's engagement, Bill hunted up Janice deliberately and found her cooling off after a strenuous game of tennis, her hair clinging to her forehead in damp little tendrils.

"Come for a walk," he begged. "I've just got to see you."

Curious, Janice yielded, and they strolled from the courts down along the winding river whose surface sparkled in the afternoon sun.

At a bend in the road where they were screened from observers, Bill stopped short. "Look here, Janice," he said abruptly. "We've got to end this farce right away, now that it's accomplished what you wished. I am sick of it."

"Why—why—Billy!" cried the girl. Then, quietly, "Somebody else?"

"Of course not," snapped Bill. "I simply won't play as a joke that which I would give my soul to have real!"

Janice drew in her breath. "Oh-o-o-h," she said. "I—I see. But—couldn't it be real?"

Bill looked for a moment as if suddenly bereft of his senses. "But you said—" he began.

"That I wanted romance," said Janice. "Well, I did. And don't you think it has been romantic? To get engaged without really being engaged to help somebody else get engaged?" Her tone was triumphant.

"What I think," said Bill joyfully, "is that you're a fraud and a goose. And I don't suppose I'll ever know whether you had this in mind from the beginning, or whether you're using it now as a hole to crawl out of."

"No," said Janice impulsively, "you never will!"

But this time, when he slipped his arm about her, she let it stay there and lifted her lips to meet his kiss.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN W. WEEKS

BODY TO BE PLACED IN VAULT AND LATER TRANSFERRED TO ARLINGTON

Lancaster, N. H., July 13.—(UP)—At dawn today John W. Weeks left for the last time this mountain town in which he was born.

Members of his family, who had gathered at his bedside during the hours that preceded his death yesterday accompanied the body to West Newton, Mass.

There, on Thursday at 1 P. M., national notables will pay final tribute to the former secretary of war and former United States senator. With the cortege that left here this morning were Mrs. Weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Weeks, his son and daughter-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. John Davidge, his daughter and son-in-law.

The body will be placed in a temporary vault in West Newton. Later in accordance with a wish often expressed by Weeks, it will be transferred to the Arlington national cemetery in Washington.

MARINES AND SAILORS EXPLORE DISASTER AREA

available for rebuilding the $3,500,000 depot, which included 276 buildings, not for replacing the approximately $80,000,000 worth of explosives, cannon and other war materials stored there. However there are eight other navy arsenals and the depletion of supplies will not be enough to prevent proper functioning of the ships in the service, it was said.

Navy precautions against an explosion of the most easily combustible war material, black powder, which was stored in huge quantities at Lake Denmark, appear to have been successful, officials said today. The powder was buried deep beneath the earth and it appears to have escaped, while its more aristocratic brothers, TNT and smokeless powder in free stage and in 14 and 16 inch shells were detonated.

Four of the foremost explosive experts of the nation will help in the survey to determine what part of the undamaged war stores can be removed. These men, two commerce department experts and two navy powder authorities, are on their way to Lake Denmark today to help the navy authorities survey the situation.

Dover, N. J., July 13.—The body of Lieutenant Herman Schrader of Long Beach, Cal., was identified today. It was one of those found near building C-31, a storehouse of TNT, depth bombs and high explosive shells, around which 16 men were found killed at their posts of duty, evidently fighting fire. It was believed Schrader had taken up direction of the fire fighters and had been killed with his squad of men when the contents of the building exploded.

Doubt was expressed as to whether identification could be made of the bodies not yet identified. If identification proves impossible they may be buried together in a single grave at Arlington national cemetery, near Washington.

Bodies of those identified will be sent to relatives as claimed.

Washington, July 13.—Explosions in the ruins of Lake Denmark, N. J., navy arsenal are diminishing but fires are still burning in the wreckage and 14 inch shells explode occasionally, the navy department was informed in official dispatches from officers at the scene today.

Thirty marines, four of whom had been listed as wounded, reported to marine headquarters at the arsenal today, official dispatches said. They are without equipment and clothing. Transportation for them to Brooklyn navy yard has been requested.

Rear Admiral Campbell, judge advocate general of the navy, is inspecting the ruins today and will return to Washington tonight, to report on conditions.

Washington, July 13.—Ten dead and 34 wounded was the toll of the Lake Denmark arsenal explosion among navy and marine corps so far as is known, according to recapitulation made by the navy department today.

The navy's personnel summary follows:

Navy—safe one, wounded 4, dead 1, missing 36.

Marine corps—safe 40, wounded 30, dead 9, missing 7.

All other casualties so far officially reported were civilians.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND CUT TO BITS IN 2 BOXES

Boston, July 13.—(UP)—The body of a young woman cut into eight pieces was found in two cardboard boxes and a burlap bag beside the stone wall bordering the new Calvary cemetery, Mattapan, today.

The head and torso were packed into a brown pasteboard box which bore the name and address of a florist. Other parts of the body had been divided between the smaller box and the bag. The head had not been severed.

The vital organs had been wrapped in a Boston newspaper dated June 27 and stuffed beneath the torso.

Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary, who has begun an autopsy, said he had found a fresh incision on the body, indicating an operation had been performed for appendicitis. The body had been dismembered by an expert surgeon, Leary said.

There was nothing in the body or on the clothing concealed in the parcel to establish the victim's identity.

The dead woman was described as between 20 and 30 years old, evidently a person of refinement. She was a brunette, with bobbed hair and dark eyes.

The legs were clad in gray stockings and the torso in a chemise. Other apparel including a white night dress was contained in the parcel which had been wrapped within the newspaper.

The box and bag were carried to the cemetery about 5 a. m. today in an automobile, police believe, with indications that it was planned to bury them in the grave yard.

Torrio Jennei of Mattapan, an employe of the state insane hospital, discovered them while on his way to work.

Detectives checking records of missing young women this afternoon requested parents of Doris Mason and Louise Powers, Dorchester high school girls, to visit the southern mortuary in an effort to identify the dismembered body. The girls disappeared on May 28 and nothing has been heard from them since.

Police Superintendent Michael L. Crowley also ordered a description of the dead woman checked with that of Miss Alice Corbett, Smith College junior, who disappeared on November 13, 1925.

Almost Too Playful

Don Carlos, of Jerotuna, is only a pup as yet, but his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Sloman, of Baltimore, Md., expect that he will be a big dog if he lives to grow up. At present he weighs 150 pounds, stands 31 inches high at the shoulder and can look into the eyes of a 6-foot man when he stands on his hind legs. He is a Great Dane. He is an ardent collector of door mats and similar things. Neighbors now write their names on their mats to expedite delivery and save confusion. Sometimes the dog's love of a good joke goes beyond that. A beekeeper, with his head covered in the usual mask, was deep in the business of corralling some swarming bees. The playful pup reared up, snatched off the mask and trotted slowly homeward with it, leaving the beekeeper involved in a cloud of insects and strong language.

Pigeons Fly Twelve Hours

"Racing pigeons dart away instantly toward their home lofts when released. Though they weigh only 16 ounces and eat only an ounce of food a day, they will fly 12 or 13 hours without stopping. A pigeon fancier comes to love his birds as a dog or horse breeder loves his favorite setter or mount. They have great intelligence. Certain birds have been valued at more than $2,000 and have brought such prices."

Charles Ellsworth, veteran Cincinnati pigeon breeder and racer, and president of the American Racing Pigeon Union, in annual convention in Cleveland, recently gave these facts to the members of the union.—Detroit News.

Theater Acoustics

Theater audiences can hear much better in a full house than in one with many empty seats, according to Prof. F. R. Watson, authority on acoustics, of the University of Illinois. In his research on sound he has found that thickly carpeted floors, heavy draperies and plush seats in theaters make for better hearing conditions on account of their sound-absorbing qualities, and the clothing of the audience acts in the same way. Small theaters with their side walls broken by boxes draped with sound-absorbing material really provide the best acoustics for the spoken drama, he asserts.

New York city is said to have the greatest per capita or "density" use of electrical energy of any city in the world. It uses more electrical energy than is used by 12 European countries combined, having an aggregate population of about 110,000,000 people.

American Explorers' Equipment Frightens Mongolian Customs Men

Copyright Am. Museum Natural History and Asia Magazine

These Mongolian guides soon overcame their fear of the explorer's flashlight equipment. They are shown here trying to find out what makes the things work.

THE American watchdogs of the customs service are not the only customs officials in the world who provide anxious and uncomfortable moments for the incoming traveler.

When Roy Chapman Andrews, naturalist and explorer, entered Mongolia to begin his expedition in search of dinosaur eggs and fossil and existing animals of that wild country of the Orient, he was obliged to pass a very thorough examination put to him by his party by the customs officials of Mongolia. These officials wanted to know all about the equipment the explorer was taking into the interior of their country and what he was going to do with it.

Guns, rifles, pistols and even cameras were inspected and approved with the usual formal show of authority. The officials were more or less familiar with these items of an explorer's equipment. Some of the devices which seemed more intricate to the minds of these hinterland Occidentals, such as compasses and barometers, required more detailed explanation and demonstration.

Balked At Flashlights

Then one of the officials, probing through the luggage, discovered an American-made electric flashlight. He wanted to know what it was for and one of the members of the expedition undertook to show him. He pressed the switch and a flood of light was thrown into the face of the official. The latter uttered an exclamation of fear and retreated. His fellow officials were called into hurried conference from which the spokesman emerged, much excited, with the warning that the Chapman expedition could not proceed across the border with such terrible devices. He and his fellows, he explained, were certain that the things were either bombs or instruments of the devil. Considerable explanation and many demonstrations of the harmlessness of the flashlights finally quieted the fears and removed the objections of the Mongolian customs officials.

The guides shown in the photograph were less fearful of the flashlights, but were constantly seeking to learn how and why they produced "light without fire."

Women and Tips

A man will leave a bigger tip when he is alone, as a general rule, than he will if his wife's with him. I've seen many a wife grab her husband's hand and shake her head "No!" when he started to leave a half-dollar by his plate. And I've seen the rest of the pantomime when the man finally picked up the half-dollar and left a nickel and a dime instead.—David Chalmers, reporting an interview with Paul Reiss, a railway chef, in the American Magazine.

Karnak Built Him Up 10 Pounds To Pink Of Condition When He Was So Wretched He Could Hardly Keep Going, Says Old Time Sheriff Of Famous Black Hills, S. D.

"Yes sir, Karnak has fixed me up so fine that I am glad to pass the good word about this medicine along to other people who are having the same trouble that I did—just have 'em see me about it," declared resident Henry A. Johnson, prominent rancher, Box 613, Casper, Wyo. Mr. Johnson came to Casper thirty-five years ago and used to be sheriff in the famous Black Hills of South Dakota.

"Before I got Karnak the 'flu' had taken me down hill till I didn't have any pep left, and I was so weak I could only work about two hours before I would give out," continues Mr. Johnson. "My appetite was so poor I didn't care whether I went to the table or not, and the little I did eat didn't seem to do me any good. There was a weak nervous feeling in the pit of my stomach, and I'd just feel dizzy and faint. At times I was so nervous and shaky my hands shook like they were cold and I could hardly write my name. My liver would get in such shape that my tongue would be coated all over and I'd have awful headaches.

"There was a dull ache across my back and under my shoulder blades, and rheumatism got such a hold on me I was almost helpless. I had to take strong laxatives for constipation, and I was in such a rundown condition it looked like I'd never get my strength back again.

"But let me tell you Karnak has sure put me in tip top condition. I've got a real appetite now and my stomach is in such fine condition I feel like I could digest nails. The constipation is all gone, the coating has all left my tongue, and I've gained 10 good pounds in weight and am not a bit nervous and shaky any more. USE VICTIMS' HEADS TO SCALP "SPOOKS"

Murder and Sacrifice Religious Rite in Burma.

The head-hunting Nagas live in the mountain fastnesses of Upper Burma. Apart from head-hunting the Nagas are a gentle and industrious race, tending their fields. It is a tribal crime to bruise a flower or kill a butterfly, according to an explorer, writing in the London Mail.

Naga villages, surrounded by impenetrable barricades of thorn and cactus, and entered through a winding tunnel, the floor of which bristles with poisonous snakes set to kill unwary and unwanted strangers, are joined to each other by groves of sacred trees. Huge gnarled boles tower to a roof of branches so dense with leaf that not a gleam of sunshine penetrates to the gloom below. In sinister rows along these groves stand totem poles, garishly daubed with brilliant ochres and hideously carved. A human skull is impaled on the top of each pole.

When the head-hunters return with their victims a dance is held. The captives are given a good meal and dressed in the best clothes the village can provide.

Before their heads, hands and feet are cut off, the villagers apologize for any inconvenience this rite may cause to the victims and point out that they will be honorably sacrificed to the harvest-gods, that their skulls will grace the sacred grove, that their ghosts will share with the village army of other victims' spooks the honored job of scaring off the horde of jinns and demons which lurk around the villages. Intent, so the Nagas say, on bringing plague and famine to the tribe.

Follows an orgy of sacrifice, opium eating and toddy drinking; the victims' heads, hands and feet are paraded on poles through the opium and paddy fields as harvest thanksgiving tokens. With solemn rites the skulls are added to the grim rows of ghostly sentinels.

But the skulls must be those of strangers, the Nagas believing that if the heads came from the shoulders of Naga tribesmen the ghosts of the victims, instead of staying in the grave by their skulls, would hunt the villagers and wreak more spiteful damage than the very jinns and demons which they should drive away.

An American home—its bathtub, breakfast foods, furnace—set down in the heart of Europe would be unmistakably an American home. An American man, the cut of his coat, the tie of his tie, the comb of his hair—walking the streets of Europe is in all his obvious tastes an American.

Advertisements stamp American homes and owners of homes with a kind of national pattern. They create desire for the same kind of things; make particular people know and want the most advanced of things. Homes—what to put in homes. People—how to dress, nourish, entertain the people. Offices—how to equip and operate offices. They set America right about radios and talcums—tell businessmen, housewives, government officials how to brush their teeth!

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN W. WEEKS

BODY TO BE PLACED IN VAULT AND LATER TRANSFERRED TO ARLINGTON

Lancaster, N. H., July 13.—(UP)—At dawn today John W. Weeks left for the last time this mountain town in which he was born.

Members of his family, who had gathered at his bedside during the hours that preceded his death yesterday accompanied the body to West Newton, Mass.

There, on Thursday at 1 P. M., national notables will pay final tribute to the former secretary of war and former United States senator. With the cortege that left here this morning were Mrs. Weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Weeks, his son and daughter-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. John Davidge, his daughter and son-in-law.

The body will be placed in a temporary vault in West Newton. Later in accordance with a wish often expressed by Weeks, it will be transferred to the Arlington national cemetery in Washington.

available for rebuilding the $3,500,000 depot, which included 276 buildings, not for replacing the approximately $80,000,000 worth of explosives, cannon and other war materials stored there. However there are eight other navy arsenals and the depletion of supplies will not be enough to prevent proper functioning of the ships in the service, it was said.

Navy precautions against an explosion of the most easily combustible war material, black powder, which was stored in huge quantities at Lake Denmark, appear to have been successful, officials said today. The powder was buried deep beneath the earth and it appears to have escaped, while its more aristocratic brothers, TNT and smokeless powder in tree stage and in 14 and 16 inch shells were detonated.

Four of the foremost explosive experts of the nation will help in the survey to determine what part of the undamaged war stores can be removed. These men, two commerce department experts and two navy powder authorities, are on their way to Lake Denmark today to help the navy authorities survey the situation.

Dover, N. J., July 13.—The body of Lieutenant Herman Schrader of Long Beach, Cal., was identified today. It was one of those found near building C-31, a storehouse of TNT, depth bombs and high explosive shells, around which 16 men were found killed at their posts of duty, evidently fighting fire. It was believed Schrader had taken up direction of the fire fighters and had been killed with his squad of men when the contents of the building exploded.

Doubt was expressed as to whether identification could be made of the bodies not yet identified. If identification proves impossible they may be buried together in a single grave at Arlington national cemetery, near Washington.

Bodies of those identified will be sent to relatives as claimed.

Washington, July 13.—Explosions in the ruins of Lake Denmark, N. J., navy arsenal are diminishing but fires are still burning in the wreckage and 14 inch shells explode occasionally, the navy department was informed in official dispatches from officers at the scene today.

The proceeds from the game will be used for the improvement of the baseball park. The price of the tickets will be only twenty-five cents, and about 2,000 fans are looked for. The line-up of the teams will be announced in later issues. The city league game that night, between the Y. M. C. A. and Seals, will be postponed.

MRS. GODFREE TO PLAY IN U. S. THIS SUMMER

GIVES AN INTERNATIONAL COMPLEXION TO WOMEN'S NATIONAL TENNIS PLAY

ALL HOPE ABANDONED THAT Mlle. SUZANNE LENGLEN WILL COME

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) New York, July 13.—Announcement by Mrs. Kathlene McKane Godfree, Wimbledon singles and doubles champion, made to the United States Lawn Tennis Association that she will make her third visit to the United States this summer, assures the women's national tennis championship of an interesting international complexion.

Mrs. Godfree on her past record and the form she showed in the hard court championships in Paris and the Wimbledon tournaments, is now the third ranking player in the world with a chance to ascend to second place if she should win at Forest Hills.

All hope that Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French queen, might be enticed to play at Forest Hills was abandoned after she broke down at Wimbledon.

There is a possibility that two of the finest and most interesting young players in Europe, Senorita D'Alvarez, the Spanish champion, and Mlle.

Katrinka Bouman, the Holland champion, may play at Forest Hills.

Helen Wills, the national champion, is certain to defend her title as she feels that she has recovered completely from her operation and that her game will be improved as a result.

The young girl from California intends to play also in two of the preliminary tournaments but she has not decided definitely on her schedule.

MEET THURSDAY NIGHT AT THE BROOKLYN BALL PARK

15 ROUND BOUT ALL SET FOR LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, July 13.—(UP)—Paul Berlenbach, world light heavyweight champion, and Jack Delaney, Bridgeport challenger, who are to meet on Thursday night at the Brooklyn baseball park in a 15 round bout for the title, wound up their training today with light workouts.

Medical examiners of the New York boxing commission who have visited the camps were to report to the commission that each man was in splendid physical condition, and within easy reach of the weight.

Delaney is a natural 175 pounder, but there has been some speculation that the champion would have difficulty in making the weight.

Berlenbach was a slight favorite in the betting but there was plenty of money available to back Delaney offered by those who believe that the skill and the sharper punching of Delaney will overcome the strength of the champion.

TEAMS TO INCLUDE SOME OF THE BEST BASEBALL TALENT IN CITY

The Rotarians and Lions are getting set for their first annual inter-club baseball game, to be played next Tuesday, July 20, at the municipal diamond. At the Rotary meeting today, the club rose in strength to answer the roar of the Lions, and more than half of the club members volunteered their baseball skill for the fray.

Last week the Lions club accepted the challenge of the Rotarians, and voted a counter challenge. The team management was vested in Cubs Jim Alderman and Rev. J. H. Bollens. The Rotarians charged with the conduct of the matters pertaining to the game are J. P. Anderson and Alfred Dillan.

The proceeds from the game will be used for the improvement of the baseball park. The price of the tickets will be only twenty-five cents, and about 2,000 fans are looked for.

The line-up of the teams will be announced in later issues. The city league game that night, between the Y. M. C. A. and Seals, will be postponed.

JOHN EVERY DIES

Death Came Very Suddenly, as Long Lake Young Man Succumbed to Pneumonia

John Every, born February 7, 1910 at Lewiston, Minn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Every of Long Lake, died at his home July 12 of pneumonia. His death came very suddenly as Friday evening, John and his two brothers, joined the Woodmen lodge.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his father and mother, four brothers and two sisters. The funeral will be held from the home Wednesday, July 14 at 2 p. m. and from the school house at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Patterson of the Presbyterian church officiating.

"IN THE SAN."

When you're here in the San, With it's ill-stricken clan, And you're lonesome, homesick and blue, You believe you are done, With the past times of fun, And the world holds nothing for you.

Sometimes you have doubted, And also have doubted, You feel like a convict in jail, Clear your eyes, look about, See the good things without, Then your health won't seem quite so frail.

The wild things of nature Have grown to great stature, (They too have afflictions we know) But in their wild state, They can never relate Of the hardships that they undergo.

So dear friends have no fear Of illness when here, And the sun will shine down on you brighter.

Laugh your sorrows away, Then you'll live for today, And tomorrow, your trials will be lighter.

PARADE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

James H. Falconer, Formerly of Brainerd, Part Owner of Circus

Ushering in the official circus season in Brainerd, the Christ and Hough Greater Circus, will show twice daily for two days, July 19 and 20 at the newly selected circus lot on the corner of Sixth and Oak streets, under the auspices of the Brainerd Fire Department. On Saturday night, July 17 there will be a mammoth parade which will include the animals of the circus, a callopie drawn by six selected ponies, the entire local Fire Department and most probably the Brainerd Boy's concert band and the famous Ladies band.

The Brainerd showing of the circus, which has trained dogs, ponies, goats and monkeys, two side shows and the regulation circus acrobatic acts, will mark the official opening of the tent show which will tour the Northwest throughout the summer. James H. Falconer, a former Brainerd resident, and Charles Hough known in local theatrical advertising circles, are owners of the circus.

Twelve prancing ponies will go through a routine of tricks at each performance, performing stunts new and old to the circus enthusiasts, and then the ponies together with as many trained dogs, two monkeys and three trained goats, will be seen in other tricks entertaining to old as well as young. Among the ponies is one, a midget, said to be one of the smallest performing ponies on exhibition today.

In one of the side shows there will be nice acts while in the other, an illusion will be presented. The side show attractions will be directed by Dr. M. E. Rutherford, a veteran circus man. Lindsay Wilson, for years one of the leading clowns with the Barnum circus, will be featured in his clowning tricks while other performers of circus fame will be seen.

"IN THE SAN."

When you're here in the San, With it's ill-stricken clan, And you're lonesome, homesick and blue, You believe you are done, With the past times of fun, And the world holds nothing for you.

Sometimes you have doubted, And also have pouted, You feel like a convict in jail, Clear your eyes, look about, See the good things without, Then your health won't seem quite so frail.

The wild things of nature Have grown to great stature, (They too have afflictions we know) But in their wild state, They can never relate Of the hardships that they undergo.

So dear friends have no fear Of illness when here, And the sun will shine down on you brighter, Laugh your sorrows away, Then you'll live for today, And tomorrow, your trials will be lighter.

Christ & Hough Greater Circus to Show Under Auspices of Fire Department

PARADE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

James H. Falconer, Formerly of Brainerd, Part Owner of Circus

Ushering in the official circus season in Brainerd, the Christ and Hough Greater Circus, will show twice daily for two days, July 19 and 20 at the newly selected circus lot on the corner of Sixth and Oak streets, under the auspices of the Brainerd Fire Department. On Saturday night, July 17 there will be a mammoth parade which will include the animals of the circus, a calliope drawn by six selected ponies, the entire local Fire Department and most probably the Brainerd Boy's concert band and the famous Ladies band.

The Brainerd showing of the circus, which has trained dogs, ponies, goats and monkeys, two side shows and the regulation circus acrobatic acts, will mark the official opening of the tent show which will tour the Northwest throughout the summer. James H. Falconer, a former Brainerd resident, and Charles Hough known in local theatrical advertising circles, are owners of the circus.

Twelve prancing ponies will go through a routine of tricks at each performance, performing stunts new and old to the circus enthusiasts, and then the ponies together with as many trained dogs, two monkeys and three trained goats, will be seen in other tricks entertaining to old as well as young. Among the ponies is one, a midget, said to be one of the smallest performing ponies on exhibition today.

In one of the side shows there will be nine acts while in the other, an illusion will be presented. The side show attractions will be directed by Dr. M. D. Rutherford, a veteran circus man. Lindsay Wilson, for years one of the leading clowns with the Barnum circus, will be featured in his clowning tricks while other performers of circus fame will be seen.

RICE PUDDING REVUE

Well Known Musical Revue Company Booked For Girl Scouts Circus

Hallett Clarkson, Earl Jamison, Pat and Emmett Murphy, are the latest acrobats to be added to the long list of attractive features at the Girl Scouts circus to be held in a big tent on the corner of Sixth and Oak streets on July 15 and 16.

The acrobats are local youngsters who will provide stunts better than what even is expected of them.

Yesterday the Rice Pudding Revue, a well known musical revue company who have played to packed houses all last winter, came to town and offered their services to the Girl Scouts, according to the circus press committee.

Two big rings will work overtime under the big top. The Ladies band will play a concert and the Boys Concert band will furnish the music for the program.

East Indian Wisdom

If none responds to your call, follow the path all alone, all alone. If again in the stormy night you do not find a single soul to hold the light for you, and they all close the doors against you, be not faint-hearted, but take a rib out of your side, and light it with the fire of lightning, and then follow the Gleam, follow the Gleam.—Rabindranath Tagore.

The N. E. team took the first game of the second half in the city league schedule, by downing the Seals, 12 to 1 last night, playing errorless ball and pounding the ball for a baker's dozen of hits, including five doubles and one three-bagger.

Van Walk was in fine pitching form, and held the Seals to but four singles, two by Ringer, and one each by Eisenman and Bernard. Van Walk had nine assists, showing how effectively he held the Seals to a pop-up game. He also made two of his team's thirteen hits.

A. Swanson, with two doubles and a single, H. Swanson with a double and two singles, Jarbo, with two doubles and a single, and Kaufman, with a three-bagger, were the heavy hitting sluggers. Jarbo almost got four hits in a row, but his other drive was pulled down by Fogelstrom over his head.

The N. E. team played the game without an error, their second such game this summer. They stand alone in this respect, no other team having played through a game without an error.

The Senators tied the score in the ninth inning and pushed over the run in the 10th that gave them a 7 to 6 victory over the Browns.

BEMIDJI BOOKS BRAINERD FOR
3 GAME SERIES OVER
LABOR DAY

Brainerd baseball fans will have their last chance to see the rejuvenated N. P. baseball team in action until the middle of August, when they take on the Isle aggregation on the municipal diamond next Sunday, July 18.

The visiting team boasts a team fully as strong as their last year's nine, which took the Brainerd team into camp by a 5 to 4 score. But Brainerd also has a stronger line-up, and the game will be well-worth watching.

Zakariassen will be on the mound again for Brainerd, and with one good game behind him to spur him on, states that he will work hard to set back the visitors. Shello will also be out in uniform, and old-timers will be glad of a chance to see the war-horse again displaying his wares in a city team uniform.

Nick Altrock the second has been working on some new stunts, which he will use for the first time Sunday, promising much amusement for the crowd.

The showing made by the locals at Bemidji last Sunday has brought them a three-game series there for the 5th and 6th of September. One game will be played on Sunday Sept. 5, and a double header on Monday, Labor Day.

STOCKS SHOW STRENGTH

New York, July 13.—(UP)—Stocks engaged in a further broad demonstration of strength in which the high grade seasoned grades on both the railroads and industrial departments took the leading part. Despite the special character, part of the gains over the last six weeks, buying power appeared unimpaired and increasing confidence was imparted to speculative sentiment during the session when large blocks of high priced stocks were taken at rising prices.

Standard dividend rails including Atchison, New York Central, C. & O., Canadian Pacific and B. & O. continued their upward climb.

General Motors made a favorable advance in response to its current prosperity by reaching a new high for the shares on the recovery from the March break. Metal shares were stiffened by lead prices while United States Steel was on its best behavior for several days.

The market closed higher.

MARK HEAVY BATTING
ONSLAUGHT

Game Tonight, 6 P. M.
Y. M. C. A. vs. B. A. C.

The N. E. team took the first game of the second half in the city league schedule, by downing the Seals, 12 to 1 last night, playing errorless ball and pounding the ball for a baker's dozen of hits, including five doubles and one three-bagger.

Van Walk was in fine pitching form, and held the Seals to but four singles, two by Ringer, and one each by Eisenman and Bernard. Van Walk had nine assists, showing how effectively he held the Seals to a pop-up game. He also made two of his team's thirteen hits.

A. Swanson, with two doubles and a single, H. Swanson with a double and two singles, Jarbo, with two doubles and a single, and Kaufman, with a three-bagger, were the heavy hitting sluggers. Jarbo almost got four hits in a row, but his other drive was pulled down by Fogelstrom over his head.

The N. E. team played the game without an error, their second such game this summer. They stand alone in this respect, no other team having played through a game without an error.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Welsh, outfielder for the Boston Braves, who hit a homer in the ninth inning with one on and beat the Cards 8 to 6. Bottomley hit his 12th homer.

The Pirates jumped on Rock Scott for four runs in the sixth inning and downed the Giants 6 to 3.

Homers by Eddie Collins and Bill Falk helped the White Sox beat the Athletics 8 to 6.

The Senators tied the score in the ninth inning and pushed over the run in the 10th that gave them a 7 to 6 victory over the Browns.

Dazzy Vance was hit on the elbow with a line drive in the fifth inning and had to leave the game, but Rube Ehrhardt came to the rescue and the Robins shut out the Cubs, 5 to 0.

George Uhle held the Yankees to four dinky hits and the Indians flopped the Yankees, 6 to 2.

Heavy hitting by Fothergill and Manush enabled the Tigers to win their game from the Red Sox 5 to 2.

The Phils knocked Rixey out of the box in the eighth, but the Reds had an early lead and won 7 to 5.

While Eddieman held the Saints to six hits his teammates hit hard enough for the Brewers to win, 6 to 4. McMenamy, Milwaukee catcher, injured his thumb in the game and will be out for two or three weeks.

Toledo made it three straight over the association leading Colonels, winning 9 to 3.

Rallying in the last two innings the Senators downed the Indians 8 to 4.

The Millers got to Sheehan, Blue pitcher, in the later innings and Minneapolis beat Kansas City 5 to 3.

ISLE B. B. TEAM TO PLAY BRAINERD SUNDAY, JULY 18

ISLE BEAT BRAINERD 5 TO 4
LAST YEAR, GOOD GAME ASSURED

BEMIDJI BOOKS BRAINERD FOR
3 GAME SERIES OVER
LABOR DAY

Brainerd baseball fans will have their last chance to see the rejuvenated N. P. baseball team in action until the middle of August, when they take on the Isle aggregation on the municipal diamond next Sunday, July 18.

The visiting team boasts a team fully as strong as their last year's nine, which took the Brainerd team into camp by a 5 to 4 score. But Brainerd also has a stronger line-up, and the game will be well-worth watching.

Zakariassen will be on the mound again for Brainerd, and with one good game behind him to spur him on, states that he will work hard to set back the visitors. Sheffo will also be out in uniform, and old-timers will be glad of a chance to see the war-horse again displaying his wares in a city team uniform.

Nick Altrock the second has been working on some new stunts, which he will use for the first time Sunday, promising much amusement for the crowd.

The showing made by the locals at Bemidji last Sunday has brought them a three-game series there for the 5th and 6th of September. One game will be played on Sunday Sept. 5, and a double header on Monday, Labor Day.

STOCKS SHOW STRENGTH

New York, July 13.—(UP)—Stocks engaged in a further broad demonstration of strength in which the high grade seasoned grades on both the railroads and industrial departments took the leading part. Despite the special character, part of the gains over the last six weeks, buying power appeared unimpaired and increasing confidence was imparted to speculative sentiment during the session when large blocks of high priced stocks were taken at rising prices.

Standard dividend rails including Atchison, New York Central, C. & O., Canadian Pacific and B. & O., continued their upward climb.

General Motors made a favorable advance in response to its current prosperity by reaching a new high for the shares on the recovery from the March break. Metal shares were stiffened by lead prices while United States Steel was on its best behavior for several days.

The market closed higher.
